

METHODS AND SYSTEMS FOR ESTIMATING A CHANNEL RESPONSE BY APPLYING BIAS TO AN INITIAL CHANNEL ESTIMATE

ABSTRACT

A channel response may be estimated from training symbols that are received over a channel, by determining an initial channel estimate from the training symbols and applying bias to the initial channel estimate to obtain a biased channel estimate.

- 5 The biased channel estimate may then be used to demodulate a signal that is received over the channel.